Break Every Chain: Reflections on liberation from systems of war and imprisonment

Kathy Kelly

Saturday, April 25, 2015

909 12th St Sacramento

5:30 Potluck dinner; 7pm program

Just out of prison for an act of civil disobedience to protest drones, Kathy Kelly will address the detrimental effect of the U.S. drone program on civilian society and share about her experience living among women prisoners abandoned and warehoused by U.S. society.

Kathy Kelly is a co-founder of Voices for Creative Non-Violence, based in Chicago, which has been challenging U.S. aggression towards Iraq, Afghanistan, and other nations since the 1990s. Kelly has been to Afghanistan 14 times. She advocates the use of civil disobedience to push for change and refuses to pay all forms of federal income tax.
